

to examine, in the light of the experience acquired by the Member States during the Covid-19 crisis, the methodological and data collection issues that should be explored together, over the next few years, on mixed-mode surveys